Welcome to our February 2009 newsletter!

Remade Fashion Fair

Pouch took part in this event on the 21 February in Birmingham (UK)

<http://www.remadefashionfair.info>

It was a great day, perfect weather and a unique venue.

Freedom Clothing are hoping to put on more events like this, watch this space!

Full details and photos can be found on our blog:

New for February

This month we have been making lots of lovely lavender hearts!

They are all made from vintage and recycled fabric and filled with chemical free lavender.

Perfect for freshening up your wardrobe or they make the perfect Mother's Day gift.

There will be lots more fabric combinations to follow over the coming weeks, but to see the current range, please visit our etsy store:

Pouch's website of the month

<http://www.uk.freecycle.org>

If you haven't already heard of the benefits of freecycling, you should really check out this site.

"Freecycle groups match people who have things they want to get rid of with people who can use them."

It's simple, if you have something you want to get rid of, post it on your local Freecycle group and if someone else wants it, they come and collect it.

We've found it invaluable and have given away a stereo, old TV, a bed frame and an unwanted compost bin to name but a few.

It's designed to keep unwanted items out of landfill.

If you have something you no longer need, log onto Freecycle and donate it to a new home!
